Grade 12 Choices

Chimamanda Ngozi Adichie's Americanah: "From one of the world's great contemporary writers comes the story of two Nigerians making their way in the U.S. and the UK, raising universal questions of race and belonging, the overseas experience for the African diaspora, and the search for identity and a home." —Barack Obama

Dave Egger's What Is the What: What Is the What: What Is the What is the epic novel based on the life of Valentino Achak Deng who, along with thousands of other children —the so called Lost Boys—was forced to leave his village in Sudan at the age of seven and trek hundreds of miles by foot, pursued by militias, government bombers, and wild animals, crossing the deserts of three countries to find freedom. When he finally is resettled in the United States, he finds a life full of promise, but also heartache and myriad new challenges. Moving, suspenseful, and unexpectedly funny, What Is the What is an astonishing novel that illuminates the lives of millions through one extraordinary man. Amazon.com

Anthony Doerr's All the Light We Cannot See: From the highly acclaimed, multiple award-winning Anthony Doerr, the stunningly beautiful instant New York Times bestseller about a blind French girl and a German boy whose paths collide in occupied France as both try to survive the devastation of World War II. Amazon.com product description

David Gilmour's The Film Club: A Memoir: Canadian film critic Gilmour tells of the deal he struck with his son Jessie, allowing him to drop out of school if he would agree to watch three movies a week with his dad. Over the course of three years, as they dissect movies, Jesse deals with serious heartbreak while his father struggles to find work and worries whether he made the right decision for his son. Booklist

William Goldman's Which Lie Did I Tell?: More Adventures in the Screen Trade: If you want to know why an unknown like Kathy Bates was cast in Misery or why Linda Hunt's brilliant work in Maverick didn't make the final cut, why Clint Eastwood loves working with Gene Hackman or how MTV has changed movies – this book is indispensable reading, a must for anyone interested in the process of how a movie gets made. Amazon.com product description

Barbara Kingsolver's The Poisonwood Bible: The Poisonwood Bible is a story told by the wife and four daughters of Nathan Price, a fierce, evangelical Baptist who takes his family and mission to the Belgian Congo in 1959. They carry with them everything they believe they will need from home, but soon find that all of it -- from garden seeds to Scripture -- is calamitously transformed on African soil. What follows is a suspenseful epic of one family's tragic undoing and remarkable reconstruction over the course of three decades in postcolonial Africa. Amazon.com product description

Pete McCarthy's McCarthy's Bar: A Journey of Discovery in Ireland: While most travel writers seek out opportunities to meet the famous or infamous, McCarthy has a knack for bumping into them, which is how he met a former member of Jimi Hendrix's band and the author Frank McCourt. He discovers that "In Ireland, the unexpected happens more than you expect," which makes for a hilarious tour through one of the most beautiful, friendly, and quirky places on earth. Amazon.com Review

Wes Moore's The Other Wes Moore: One Name, Two Fates: Two kids with the same name lived in the same decaying city. One went on to be a Rhodes Scholar, decorated combat veteran, White House Fellow, and business leader. The other is serving a life sentence in prison. Here is the story of two boys and the journey of a generation. Goodreads.com product description

Jodi Picoult's Small Great Things: When a newborn baby dies after a routine hospital procedure, there is no doubt about who will be held responsible: the nurse who had been banned from looking after him by his father. What the nurse, her lawyer and the father of the child cannot know is how this death will irrevocably change all of their lives, in ways both expected and not. Small Great Things is about prejudice and power; it is about that which divides and unites us. It is about opening your eyes. Amazon.com review

Mary Shelley's Frankenstein: Mary Shelley's timeless gothic novel presents the epic battle between man and monster at its greatest literary pitch. In trying to create life, the young student Victor Frankenstein unleashes forces beyond his control, setting into motion a long and tragic chain of events that brings Victor to the very brink of madness. Amazon.com product description

Kurt Vonnegut's Slaughterhouse Five: Slaughterhouse-Five, an American classic, is one of the world's great antiwar books. Centering on the infamous firebombing of Dresden, Billy Pilgrim's odyssey through time reflects the mythic journey of our own fractured lives as we search for meaning in what we fear most. Amazon.com product description
